Copyright © 2019 by We Built It

All rights reserved. No part of this book may be reproduced or used in any manner without written permission of the copyright owner except for the use of quotations in a book review.

For more information, address:
theworldkeepersbooks@gmail.com

FIRST EDITION

www.tythehunter.com

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Check Ty The Hunter's website to see a complete list of books.

"The World Keepers" - Tween/Teen readers

"The Guild Crafters" - Tween/Teen Readers

"The Guild Crafters Block Books" - New Readers

Have your parents check www.TyTheHunter.com for updates.

Get in touch with me at theworldkeepersbooks@gmail.com

Starring:

Dirt Block

Wood Block

Sand Block

Coal Block

Iron Block

Gold Block

Emerald Block

Diamond Block

and....a few Villagers

See, Dirt blocks are a friendly sort, they'll hold your house
and build your fort.

They do a lot for the town, and yet...
sometimes the other blocks forget.

On the way from school one day,
a little Dirt block tried to play.

To those he saw along the way,
"Let's hang out!", he'd wave and say.

A Wooden block just shook his head,
"We're floating in this river bed."

"If you tried to brave this flood,
before you know it, you'd be mud."

Next, he saw some blocks of Sand building castles across the land.

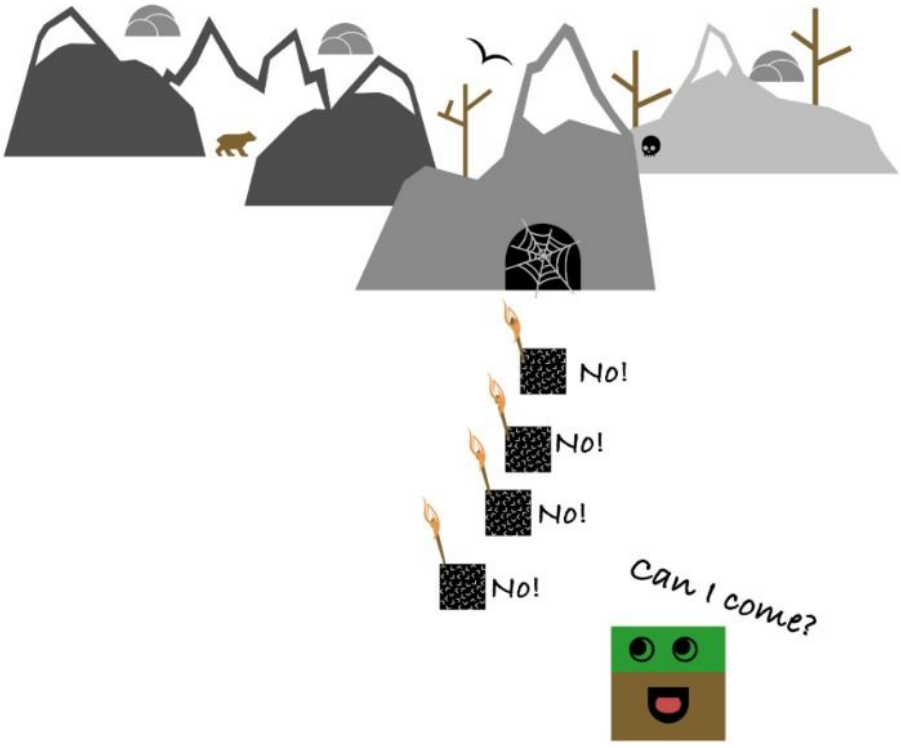
"Can I help? I'll lend a hand!"
"You can't," they said, "you're too bland."



The Coal blocks went into a mine,
their torches glowing down the line.

"You don't make fire, you can't see.
So, no, you cannot come with me."

Some Iron blocks were making rails, riding trains along their trails.

"You'd get crushed, you're useless here, go and watch from over there."

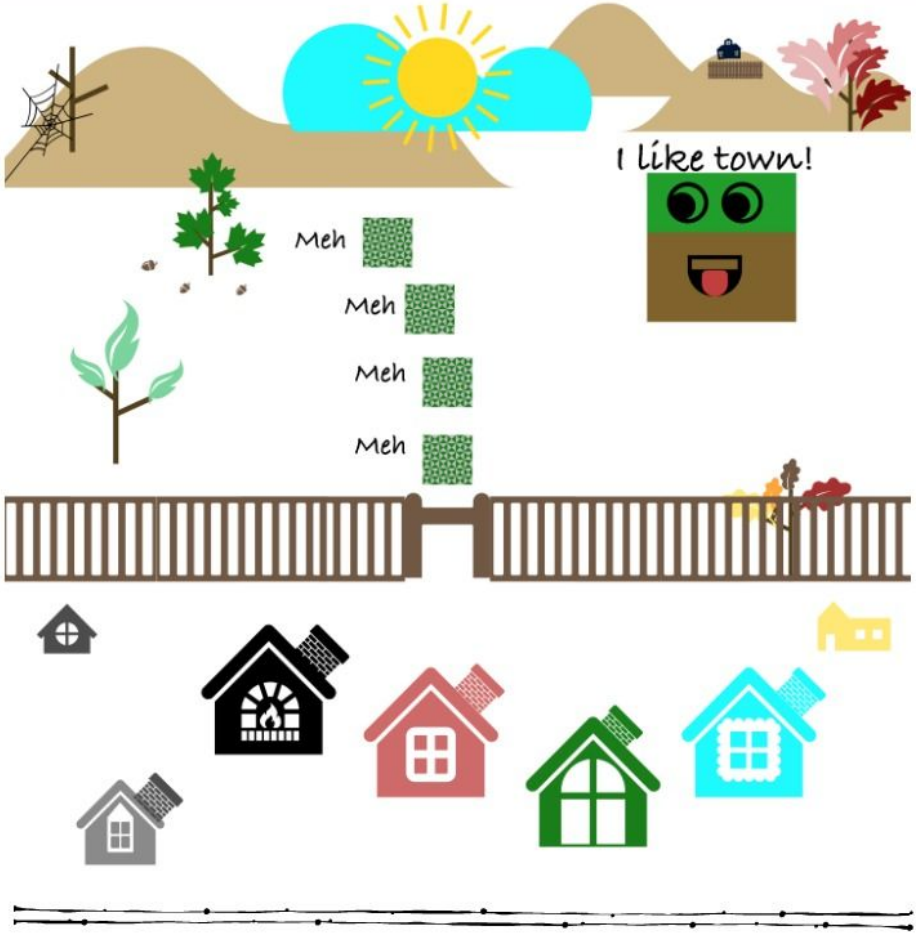
Gold was lying in the sun,
shining bright and having fun,

"If you don't sparkle, you can't stay.
Move along now, go away."

#determined

Little Dirt block refused to bend,
"I'll keep trying, it's not the end!"

"Someone else will play with me.
I will find them, you will see!"



A group of green caught his eye,
Emerald blocks were walking by.

"You can't be traded in the town,
so see ya later, see ya round."